

AEGIALIS HOTEL & SPA DESTINATION WEDDINGS

In Greece, from antiquity, women have always held a very important role in the family and weddings were always celebrated for many days as a very important event in local societies.

Whether the groom received the bride's hand from a proud or grudging father, or proposed on bended knee beneath a starlit sky, the answer was "yes"!

Join us now on Amorgos, an island the Gods never forgot, to celebrate your union where heroes and maidens of old joined in eternal companionship.

Amorgos, with rugged hills, tiers of color, poetic villages of white and blue, sparkling water and sandy beaches. Amorgos, with its history, tradition, majestic beauty and serene solitude – here is a setting full of romance, mystery and timelessness, the perfect setting for your special celebration.

Take a deep breath... and step into the enchanted world that is Amorgos.

WHY AMORGOS?

Amorgos lies in the south eastern point of the Cyclades islands in the Aegean Sea and spans 32 km from north to south and has a maximum width of 8 km. Its unparalleled natural beauty provided the inspiration for French film director Luc Besson who shot the famous “Big Blue” in the turquoise waters and beaches of Amorgos.

Agia Anna beach, which is shown in the film, lies directly beneath the impressive monastery of Panagia Hozoviotissa which is built against imposing mountain cliffs. Amorgos’ natural beauty offers itself for the most memorable wedding in the Aegean.

The island has two ports, Aegiali in the north and Katapola in the south, with regular boat connections to the nearby islands and Piraeus port. In high season, there are also regular high speed boat connections with Santorini, making transport for your wedding in Amorgos easy.

There are many traditional villages across the wild landscape, Chora doubtlessly being the prettiest, with forty churches, a Venetian castle with excellent panoramic views of the island and plenty of inspirational walks through beautiful squares and narrow Cycladic architecture lined streets.

There is plenty to see and do on the island; however, relaxing in tranquil surroundings and taking each day as it comes must be high on your agenda.
